IF YOUR SHOTGUN FAILS,
TRY THIS ON A GANDER

(From The Hanna Herald) Every hunting season brings its train of stories, some bordering on the "romantic" but nevertheless adding to the color and enjoyment that goes with the outdoor sport.
One was heard the other day that "takes the cake." It concerns a good old duck when geese were apparently very plentiful, and men were a bit more resourceful than they are now days.

The story goes something like this:
A traveller making his rounds in a car of ancient vintage, was coming along the road just as it was getting dark. You guessed it: the car stalled. The traveller got out to take a look under the hood, and on straightening up noticed in the haze of the sinking sun several objects during past him on either side. On closer investigation he discovered they were geese. Yes, indeed literally hundreds of them, coming by at short intervals.

Here's where the resourcefulness comes in. Quickly sizing up the situation, the traveller stepped on the side of the road and picked up a willow post. From there on he must have been a merry old time.
For when he got finished seizing the post, and after catching his breath he had actually slugged 47 ganders into submission.

The story is told as gospel truth, and the action was supposed to have taken place twenty-five years ago. It is difficult to say if the traveller is still living to substantiate the story, but one thing for sure is that no one in this modern day ever saw geese come in like that, let alone put the willow to them.

You live and learn from your elders. Those who have had near luck this year on geese might lay aside their rusty 12 gauge and pay a call to the local lumber yard.
They have them there in various sizes, lengths and weights.

GERMANS WANT TO TRADE

Before World War Two Germany annually purchased Canadian products to the value of around $18 million. At the present time purchases run around $2 million a year. A group of eight business men from Eastern Germany are now in Canada seeking to revive trade between the two nations.

A TIMELY HINT

Here's a timely hint for people who have the dangerous habit of using coal oil for starting fires: Take a gallon of kerosene and soak it with coal oil. Place a tablespoon full of this on your kindling.
Light it, and see the results for yourself. There is no danger of an explosion, and your fire will burn with a heat that is so enjoyable these cool mornings. Try it.—Contributed by Ira Stauffer.

STORE TEETH FOR SHEEP

Older sheep that suffer the loss of their teeth have a brighter future in store for them—a dentist has come up with a set of false teeth for their declining years.
The dental plate for sheep is an invention of Dr. E.M. Sinn, of Palestine, Oklahoma, and plans are being made now to mass produce them for sale at $1 a set. Shepherds believe that the false teeth will increase the life span of the sheep.—Imperial Farm News.

Big Grizzly Killed
West of Innisfail

On Thursday last Mr. George Bugbee, of Rileinus was returning from a big game hunt about 60 miles west of Innisfail, with two Americans, Roy and Ervino Hunskor of Newburg, North Dakota. The party had gotten two big moose and were on their way out with their ponies and pack horses. They were passing through a narrow defile in the woods when they came face to face with a big silver tip grizzly bear. The bear had evidenly killed two moose and was quietly feeding when disturbed by the hunting party. He immediately prepared for action and made for the men. Mr. Bugbee also prepared for action and when the big brute was about 75 feet away it rose up on its hind legs, then Mr. Bugbee raised his rifle and sent a bullet crashing into the bear's mouth.
The bullet broke off a front tooth and went out the back of the skull.
The bear was evidently killed instantly as it rolled over and made no effort to get up again.

It was a real bruiser measuring 9 feet, 6 inches from nose to tip of the tail and when standing was over 10 feet high. It measured 20 inches from nose to the back of the skull and 19 inches across from ear tip to ear tip. It weighed 1250 pounds.

The animal was evidently well on in years as its teeth were all pretty well worn down, but its paws and forearms were big and powerful and armed with vicious long claws.

One of the moose that the bear had been feeding on had been badly mauled as the legs had been broken and many of the ribs crushed as if it had been struck down by the powerful paws of the bear.

Mr. Bugbee brought the pelt into town and will have it dressed and made up into a rug as a souvenir of the trip.

Messrs. Roy and Ervino Hunskor were greatly impressed with our big game country out west and carried two moose home as trophies of their visit. They were also much pleased with the beauty and scenery and the farming country passed through to reach the hunting ground.

They will come back to Innisfail next year for another big game hunt.—Innisfail Province.

Visitor: "Say, they must have the same landlord we have."

IT'S YOUR MONEY

Social security payments by the Federal Government last year totalled $730 millions. That's almost exactly one-third the entire expenditure by Ottawa and almost 50 per cent more than the average pre-war budget (1934-38).

Judged by any standards that is a most substantial sum of money, even for a country as rich and prosperous as Canada. With present buoyant revenues the outlay is only possible by taxation that would have been considered fantastically high as recently as ten years ago. If we encountered more difficult times, and even an optimist can hardly discount that possibility in view of the uncertain world trade outlook, meeting such a bill for largely non-productive social services might create a grave problem indeed.

But high as our present bill is for family allowances, pensions, national health, veterans affairs and other such services, there is steady pressure on the Federal Government to hand out still more.

It is time that every man, woman and child realized that the money for social services does not grow on trees or cannot be produced simply by making the Mint put on an extra shift.—The Financial Post.

U.S.A. ORDERS GIANT BRITISH HELICOPTERS

The world's largest and heaviest helicopter, the British Clerva Air Horse, which gave such an impressive display at this year's Farnborough Air Week has been ordered by several American operators. Delivery is expected in about two years. The Clerva Air Horse recently wound up a series of flight trials by flying at an all-up weight of 17,500 lbs., the world's record lift for rotating aircraft with an average of 2.6 tons per rotor. It is powered by a Rolls Royce Merlin engine and has a rectangular fuselage. The machine has a cargo capacity of 800 cubic feet and can take 24 passengers.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

FEMININE PREROGATIVE

Five-year-old Sue was "helping" her daddy at his work bench in the basement. Finally he tired of her incessant chatter and questions and he asked her to be quiet for a while.

"I don't have to be quiet," stated Sue importantly. "I'm a woman."

IT'S TIME NOW

The Post Office Department at Ottawa has advised Canadians to start thinking about Christmas parcels going overseas. Parcels and letters for continental Europe must be mailed immediately to ensure delivery by Christmas. Parcels for the United Kingdom must be mailed by November 16 and letters by November 29. So you haven't much time left to get that overseas mail away.

HOGS REJOICE, BUT NOT TAXPAYER

There will be some happy hogs in the United States this year. In addition to their regular rations of corn and slops they are going to be fed fresh grapes and raisins, possibly some grape juice and wine. It's all part of the farm prices stabilization scheme, where by swollen wartime production and prices are maintained regardless of demand and the taxpayer, says The Financial Post.

This year's big grape crop strained things pretty badly. Even when an expanded ECA had been added to normal domestic demand there were going to be many thousands of tons left over. Of course nobody even suggested the old-fashioned remedy of reducing prices to gain more customers. Instead they called on the hogs.

In this floor-priced subsidized farming, thank goodness, we have been a little more cautious in Canada. But, warns The Post, we are not entirely immune. While customers turn to cheaper margarine butter is piling up rapidly in cold storage. Before the winter sets in the same thing may well happen with apples and potatoes.

FIREWORKS TO PROTECT AIRFIELDS

Collisions with birds over Prestwick and Renfrew Airports in Scotland have sometimes caused damage to aircraft; a fact which gives added point to experiments in "bird scaring" at Prestwick. Tests are being made with "bird scaring ropes". The Chinese have used fire crackers for many thousands of years to scare away evil spirits. In Britain the idea has been taken up to scare birds from orchards, nursery gardens and crops. And now United Kingdom Fireworks manufacturers are adopting the idea for airfield use. Lengths of light rope strung between poles on the airfield act as fuses to explode, at pre-set intervals, a series of crackers strung along the ropes. Each cracker gives a loud report which will probably scare off birds up to a distance of four hundred yards. A chain of crackers can be made up to last eight hours with detonations every fifteen minutes. Materials for this method have the merit of being cheap to manufacture, available in quantity, and requiring very little attention. No specialist operators are needed.

WEDDINGS

GOOD—WEBER

Miss Joan Lenore Weber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Weber of Didsbury, became the bride of Mr. Ernest Carlyle Good, son of Mrs. Glen West and the late Mr. Samuel Good, of Carstairs. In a recent wedding ceremony solemnized in the United Missionary Church, Didsbury.

The nuptial rites were performed by Rev. C. Hedegaard, uncle of the bride, assisted by Rev. C.J. Hallman.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white slipper satin trimmed with pearl rosettes. Her veil of embroidered illusion net cascaded in graceful folds from a net lace halo. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Preceding the bride down the aisle were four attendants, two bridesmaids and two flower girls. Miss Penny Hallman, in a floor-length gown of blue taffeta with matching headpiece and gloves, carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Miss Ethel Davies, in a floor-length gown of pink with matching veil and gloves, carried a bouquet of blue carnations.

Miss Marguerite McArthur, in a floor-length gown of pink organza over pink taffeta, carried a nosegay of pink roses.

Miss Linda Hedegaard, in a floor-length gown of white organza over yellow taffeta, carried a nosegay of yellow roses.

The groom was attended by his brother, Neil Good, and by the bride's brother, Cecil Weber.

Donald Weber, Melville McEwen and David and William Steekly ushered the guests.

Mrs. Elmer Greenman of Olds played the traditional wedding march and Mr. Walter Saylor sang "Wedding Prayer." During the signing of the register Misses Greta and Mary Good sang a duet, "In the Garden of My Heart."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Lions' hall, where the parents of the bride and the bridegroom entertained 70 guests. The tables were decorated in pink and white and the wedding cake was tastefully arranged under a canopy of pink and silver bells.

The gifts were displayed on a table at the side of the room.

For her going away ensemble the bride donned a green crepe dress, wine gabardine top coat, black hat and black accessories.

After spending a honeymoon at Banff the newly weds will reside on the groom's farm three miles south of Didsbury.

The lowest summer water-flow on record—the greatest demand for power this Province has ever known—may combine to prevent Reddy Kilowatt doing all the jobs you want him to do.

Although we have tied in all available steam plants to our own resources it may still be necessary to curtail electricity for certain jobs during short periods.

This will only be temporary. Power consumption decreases after the turn of the year; and by next Fall the first of the Spray Lakes Units will be in operation.

Mary Wrightson of Innisfail, cousin of the bride, and Evelyn Leinweber of Calgary, the former wore a Nile green dress with lace bodice and net skirt over taffeta, and the latter wore pink net over taffeta with brocade taffeta bodice. All three attendants wore white Juliet fatted caps made by the maid of honor, white elbow-length gloves, and carried bouquets of white carnations. Their jewelry was single strands of pearls.
